Squirrel selected as one of 31 companies to join the SIX European Growth Program

Squirrel has been selected to join the SIX European Growth Program from its inception. The programme was unveiled today by SIX and BME. As a member, Squirrel receives the SIX European Growth Company designation.

The new SIX European Growth Index brings together just 31 high-growth companies listed on SIX Swiss Exchange, BME and Aquis Stock Exchange in Switzerland, Spain and the United Kingdom, respectively.

Squirrel's inclusion in the programme represents international recognition of its track record, the value of its business model and its strong growth.

SIX European Growth Index at the heart of the programme

As a central part of the programme, SIX has launched the SIX European Growth Index, a selective index that provides investors with a common benchmark for identifying growth companies across the three markets and tracking their collective stock market performance. Squirrel's shares are included in the official index composition from launch.

The initial group announced by SIX comprises 31 companies with market capitalisations ranging from €100 million to €1 billion. The index follows a publicly available, rules-based methodology. Its constituents are weighted by free-float-adjusted market capitalisation, and its composition is reviewed quarterly.

The SIX European Growth Index is expected to serve as a potential benchmark for funds and other passively managed investment vehicles designed to track its performance. If launched, these products could channel investment flows into the shares of index constituents, including Squirrel.

International promotion and visibility

The programme includes coordinated marketing and communications activities, investor meetings and wider distribution of participating companies' corporate profiles and equity research. It also provides access to market intelligence, research coverage and capital markets training.

Joining the programme strengthens Squirrel's investor relations strategy and gives the company more opportunities to present its business model and growth strategy to international institutional investors.
