

The Financial Education Plan convenes the third edition of the “Finance for All” prizes

Madrid, 20 June 2018

The Financial Education Plan, promoted by the CNMV (National Securities Market Commission) and the Banco de España, has, as in the past two years, convened the “Finance for All” prizes.

The aim of these prizes is to promote excellence in the financial education initiatives developed in Spain, acknowledging the work of those institutions and individuals who have demonstrated exceptional dedication and commitment in this area.

The “Finance for All” prizes comprise two categories: a prize for the best financial education initiative, and a prize for implementation of the Financial Education Plan.

Eligible for the first category are individuals or legal entities that are not considered to be partner institutions of the Financial Education Plan and that have, as from 1 January 2017, set in train financial education initiatives that are significant in light of their social outreach or of their novelty value.

For the second category, partner institutions of the Plan that have stood out since 1 January 2017 in promoting and disseminating the national financial education strategy may compete.

The “Finance for All” prizes will be judged on 21 September 2018 by a panel made up of an official from each sponsoring institution of the Financial Education Plan (namely the Banco de España and the CNMV).

The prizes will be awarded at the CNMV headquarters on 1 October 2018 on the occasion of the main ceremony of the fourth edition of the Financial Education Day.

Competitors may submit their applications from 18 June to 15 September 2018, inclusive. They should send the information requested to the following address: finanzasparatodos@cnmv.es.

For further information, the terms and conditions of the “Finance for all” prizes can be consulted at the following link: bases de los Premios Finanzas para Todos.