

THE CNMV ORGANISES THE FIFTH EDITION OF THE ANTONIO MORENO ESPEJO JOURNALISM AWARD

5 October 2021

- The award is a tribute to the professional career of Antonio Moreno Espejo, who was the Director of the Institution Authorisation and Registration Department of the CNMV for 15 years.
- The prize for the 2020 edition was awarded to the work “Así será la economía que vendrá tras el virus” (This will be the economy to come after the virus) by Miguel A. García Vega.

The Spanish National Securities Market Commission (CNMV) announces the call for the Antonio Moreno Espejo Journalism Award for 2021.

The award recognises journalistic works that have stood out for promoting the integrity and transparency of the securities market and the protection of investor interests, values which guide the CNMV's activity and that this institution must promote.

Antonio Moreno Espejo was a member of the CNMV's staff from its inception in the late eighties until his untimely death in January 2017. He was an economist by trade and the Director of the CNMV's Institution Authorisation and Registration Department for 15 years.

The prize consists of an endowment of 15,000 euros and is awarded in a single category.

Any journalistic creation that has been published in the Spanish media between 1 January and 31 December 2021, in any of Spain's official languages, may be awarded the prize.

The criteria for granting the award will be the rigour and technical quality of the work, the extent to which it promotes transparency in the securities markets and the protection of investor interests, as well as the contribution of the work to financial education.

The jury will be formed by three to five members and will be chaired by a CNMV Commissioner. The other members will be persons linked to institutions or associations related to the financial sector, including consumer or investor associations, or renowned experts.

The works will be chosen by the CNMV Communications Department, on its own initiative or at the proposal of any person or entity, and the decision will be made public in the first quarter of 2022.

The winner of the last edition was Miguel A. García Vega for his article “Así será la economía que vendrá tras el virus” (This will be the economy to come after the virus), published in the newspaper El País.

Numerous institutions related to the financial sector collaborate with the CNMV to publicise the Antonio Moreno Award.
