TRANSACTION SUMMARY

The transactions comprise fully amortising Spanish residential mortgages serviced by Caixabank, S.A. (A/Positive/F1), and the current portfolio balance of both transactions is equivalent to around 12% of the initial balance.

KEY RATING DRIVERS

Updated HPI for Spain: The rating actions reflect the updated assumptions driving Fitch's recovery rates under the European RMBS Rating Criteria. Since the previous house price index (HPI) update in October 2024, the data indicates that Spain has recorded strong house price growth, which has positively affected the weighted average indexed current loan to value ratios of these transactions (see "Fitch Places 42 European RMBS Tranches on Rating Watch Positive on House Price Decline Update" dated 3 March 2026).

CE Increase: Fitch deems the notes to be sufficiently protected by credit enhancement (CE) able to absorb the projected losses commensurate with the ratings. For both transactions, Fitch expects the CE ratios to continue building up, considering the prevailing sequential amortisation of the notes and the ongoing replenishment of the reserve funds (RF).

Payment Interruption Risk: Fitch now views payment interruption risk in both transactions as mitigated in the event of a servicer disruption by a cash RF that is sufficient to cover stressed senior fees, net swap payments and senior notes interest due amounts while an alternative servicer arrangement is being implemented. We expect the RF to remain sufficiently funded in the medium term, based on our expectations for the transactions' performance. As a result, Fitch has removed the 'AA+sf' cap on the notes' ratings, in line with its rating criteria.

Excessive Counterparty Exposure: The upgrade of both transactions' class D notes to 'A+sf' reflects the recent rating action on the transaction account bank's (TAB, Societe Generale S.A.) deposit rating. The class D notes' ratings are capped and linked to the TAB provider's deposit rating as the cash reserves held at this entity represent a very material source of structural CE for the notes and a sudden loss of these funds would result in multiple-notch downgrade, in accordance with Fitch's Structured Finance and Covered Bonds Counterparty Rating Criteria.

The same excessive counterparty exposure risk applies to both transactions' class E notes, but their ratings are below the associated cap (see "Fitch Takes Rating Actions on 6 French Banking Groups Following Criteria Update" dated May 2026).

Portfolio Features: The portfolios are highly exposed to the region of Madrid, with exposure greater than 60%. To address regional concentration risk, Fitch applies higher rating multiples to the base foreclosure frequency assumption to the portion of the portfolios that exceeds 2.5x the population within this region relative to the national total, in line with its European RMBS Rating Criteria. In addition, more than 40% of the portfolios was originated via third-party brokers, a feature that carries a foreclosure frequency adjustment of 120% in our credit analysis.

The recent arrears volatility driven by increasing mortgage rates, together with the historically significant underperformance of the transactions, led to the application of a 1.5x transaction adjustment to the foreclosure frequency.

RATING SENSITIVITIES

Factors that Could, Individually or Collectively, Lead to Negative Rating Action/Downgrade

- For both transactions' class D notes, a downgrade of the TAB provider's deposit rating as the notes are rated at their maximum achievable rating due to excessive counterparty risk exposure.
- Long-term asset performance deterioration such as increased delinquencies or larger defaults, which could be driven by changes to macroeconomic conditions, interest-rate increases or borrower behavior. For example, a 15% increase in defaults and a 15% decrease in recoveries would result in downgrades of up to one notch for the class D notes and up to two notches for the class E notes in both transactions.

Factors that Could, Individually or Collectively, Lead to Positive Rating Action/Upgrade

- For both transactions' class D notes, an upgrade of the TAB provider's deposit rating subject to sufficient CE protection as the notes are rated at their maximum achievable rating due to excessive counterparty risk exposure.
- Stable to improved asset performance driven by stable delinquencies and defaults would lead to increasing CE and potentially upgrades. For example, a 15% decrease in defaults and a 15% increase in recoveries would result in a one-notch upgrade of the class E notes in both transactions.

SUMMARY OF FINANCIAL ADJUSTMENTS

The principal sources of information used in the analysis are described in the Applicable Criteria.

USE OF THIRD PARTY DUE DILIGENCE PURSUANT TO SEC RULE 17G -10

Form ABS Due Diligence-15E was not provided to, or reviewed by, Fitch in relation to this rating action.

DATA ADEQUACY

Fitch has checked the consistency and plausibility of the information it has received about the performance of the asset pools and the transactions. Fitch has not reviewed the results of any third-party assessment of the asset portfolio information or conducted a review of origination files as part of its ongoing monitoring.

Fitch did not undertake a review of the information provided about the underlying asset pools ahead of the transactions' initial closing. The subsequent performance of the transactions over the years is consistent with the agency's expectations, given the operating environment and Fitch is therefore satisfied that the asset pool information relied upon for its initial rating analysis was adequately reliable.

Overall, and together with any assumptions referred to above, Fitch's assessment of the information relied upon for the agency's rating analysis according to its applicable rating methodologies indicates that it is adequately reliable.

PUBLIC RATINGS WITH CREDIT LINKAGE TO OTHER RATINGS

The class D notes' ratings in both transactions are directly linked and capped to their TAB's long-term deposit rating due to excessive counterparty dependence.

ESG CONSIDERATIONS

For both transactions the ESG Relevance Score has been revised to '3' from '5' as we assess payment interruption risk as mitigated up to the 'AAA' rating case.

The highest level of ESG credit relevance is a score of '3', unless otherwise disclosed in this section. A score of '3' means ESG issues are credit neutral or have only a minimal credit impact on the entity, either due to their nature or the way in which they are being managed by the entity. Fitch's ESG Relevance Scores are not inputs in the rating process; they are an observation on the relevance and materiality of ESG factors in the rating decision. In issuing and maintaining its ratings and in making other reports (including forecast information), Fitch relies on factual information it receives from issuers and underwriters and from other sources Fitch believes to be credible. Fitch conducts a reasonable investigation of the factual information relied upon by it in accordance with its ratings methodology, and obtains reasonable verification of that information from independent sources, to the extent such sources are available for a given security or in a given jurisdiction. The manner of Fitch's factual investigation and the scope of the third-party verification it obtains will vary depending on the nature of the rated security and its issuer, the requirements and practices in the jurisdiction in which the rated security is offered and sold and/or the issuer is located, the availability and nature of relevant public information, access to the management of the issuer and its advisers, the availability of pre-existing third-party verifications such as audit reports, agreed-upon procedures letters, appraisals, actuarial reports, engineering reports, legal opinions and other reports provided by third parties, the availability of independent and competent third-party verification sources with respect to the particular security or in the particular jurisdiction of the issuer, and a variety of other factors. Users of Fitch's ratings and reports should understand that neither an enhanced factual investigation nor any third-party verification can ensure that all of the information Fitch relies on in connection with a rating or a report will be accurate and complete. Ultimately, the issuer and its advisers are responsible for the accuracy of the information they provide to Fitch and to the market in offering documents and other reports. In issuing its ratings and its reports, Fitch must rely on the work of experts, including independent auditors with respect to financial statements and attorneys with respect to legal and tax matters. Further, ratings and forecasts of financial and other information are inherently forward-looking and embody assumptions and predictions about future events that by their nature cannot be verified as facts. As a result, despite any verification of current facts, ratings and forecasts can be affected by future events or conditions that were not anticipated at the time a rating or forecast was issued or affirmed. Fitch Ratings makes routine, commonly-accepted adjustments to reported financial data in accordance with the relevant criteria and/or industry standards to provide financial metric consistency for entities in the same sector or asset class.

The complete span of best- and worst-case scenario credit ratings for all rating categories ranges from 'AAA' to 'D'. Fitch also provides information on best-case rating upgrade scenarios and worst-case rating downgrade scenarios (defined as the 99th percentile of rating transitions, measured in each direction) for international credit ratings, based on historical performance. A simple average across asset classes presents best-case upgrades of 4 notches and worst-case downgrades of 8 notches at the 99th percentile.
