

24 September 2021

On 4 October, Financial Education Day is to be held under the slogan "Your finances, also sustainable"

The main event will take place at the Bank of Spain's headquarters and can be followed via streaming on the website www.finanzasparatodos.es

On Monday, 4 October, the seventh edition of Financial Education Day is to be held under the slogan "Your finances, also sustainable". The aim of this year's event, promoted by the Bank of Spain and the Spanish National Securities Market Commission through the Financial Education Plan, is to make society aware of the importance of citizens acquiring knowledge about personal finance, a subject that affects their daily lives in many ways. On the occasion of the holding of the event, the Plan's network of collaborators has programmed a wide range of financial education activities throughout the country aimed at all kinds of groups.

The slogan chosen this year, "Your finances, also sustainable", aims to combine the commitment to the environmental, social and governance sustainability of the planet with the management of personal finances in all its aspects, from proper planning of domestic finances to responsible investment. The main event of the Financial Education Day will be held at the headquarters of the Bank of Spain, in compliance with the health recommendations due to the pandemic and can also be followed via streaming on the website www.finanzasparatodos.es, as well as on social networks.

The Governor of the Bank of Spain, Pablo Hernández de Cos, and the Chair of the CNMV, Rodrigo Buenaventura, will participate in the event, which will include speeches by the First Vice-President and Minister of Economic Affairs and Digital Transformation, Nadia Calviño, as well as authorities from the Ministries of Education and Vocational Training and Consumer Affairs.

During the event, the final of the School Financial Knowledge Quiz will be held, and the Finance for All prizes will be awarded, which this year have gone to Afundación Obra Social Abanca, and the Association of Financial Users (Asufin) and connections will be made with different cities where some training activities are taking place.

The financial education project developed by ASUFIN shows its commitment to financial consumer protection. ASUFIN is committed to carrying out educational initiatives tailored to the needs of consumers, which facilitates their access to training and information and improves their ability to relate responsibly in the financial market with other stakeholders.

The initiative of Afundación Obra Social ABANCA, with its programme “Seguramente, Emprende tu viaje: un plan lleno de aventuras” (“Embark on your journey safely: a plan full of adventure”), has provided schools with innovative tools with which to approach financial education, in line with the current educational curriculum. In addition, it has given students the opportunity to face the decisions involved in planning a trip and the unforeseen events that may arise, integrating financial education into the daily aspects of our lives and combining it with other knowledge such as those related to sustainability.

The Financial Education Plan, promoted by the Bank of Spain and the CNMV, was born in 2008 with the aim of improving the financial culture of Spaniards and is able to count on the collaboration of the Ministries of Economic Affairs and Digital Transformation, Education and Vocational Training and Consumer Affairs, as well as the participation of 45 collaborating entities from all areas.

For further information:

Bank of Spain Communications Office
CNMV Communications Office

91 338 88 39
91 585 15 30